veil from the heart could be torn And the mind could be read on the brow — There are heart must be barren in deed where no bud of repentance may bloom — Then many will pass by with scorn When we're loading with high honors now. Let us pause ere you cause it to bleed On a smile or a frown hangs its doom. Let us speak of a man as we find him — And censure alone what we see And speak of a man as we find him — And heed not what others may say If he's should a man himself's re-mind him That from faults we are none of us free. —
