sad music-making

for five performers

Performance instructions:

Each performer chooses a part, which they perform at their own pace. The numbers of seconds are not to be measured by means of a stopwatch or a watch, but are approximate – each player counts that amount in seconds. Precision is not of utter importance, but cohesion is. Each player must listen to the other players and make sure he is not just randomly playing his/her part, but playing together with the others.

Big numbers in their own boxes indicate approximate length of silence in seconds.
Small numbers in brackets indicate approximately how long the activity should be.
