THE MARTYRDOM OF ST. POLYCARP

A SACRED ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

THE REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART.,

PREFACE.

ST POLYCARP comes first before us, in the History of the Church, as the venerable Bishop of Smyrna. Irenæus, who was his disciple, does indeed tell us that he had held converse with the Apostles, and with those who had enjoyed the much coveted privilege of seeing the Lord: but of his birthplace, his family, his country, we know nothing whatever. There is a tradition that he was appointed Bishop of Smyrna by St. John himself; and we know that he watched over the see intrusted to him for many years, fulfilling, as the affectionate testimony of Irenæus shows, all the functions of his office faithfully, and at the last bravely following his blessed Master even to the death.

Though it is only a probability that the words spoken by our Lord, through St. John, to the "Angel of the Church at Smyrna," were addressed to St. Polycarp, yet, as it is not unlikely, and as the words are most suitable, we have ventured to use them as an Introduction to the Oratorio. If it is necessary to apologise for putting them into the mouth of an Angel, we may say that as in the Martyrium S. Polycarpi (from which the words are chiefly taken) mention is made of an Angel comforting the aged Bishop before his trial, we have taken the liberty of introducing Angelic voices both here and in the Trio near the end.

The letter on St. Polycarp's Martyrdom is to be found in the Patres Apostolici, and (for the most part) in Eusebius. Its authority, and truth, as a whole, are generally credited: though there may have been some few interpolations—and though some of its statements may seem to savour of credulity and the love of the marvellous.

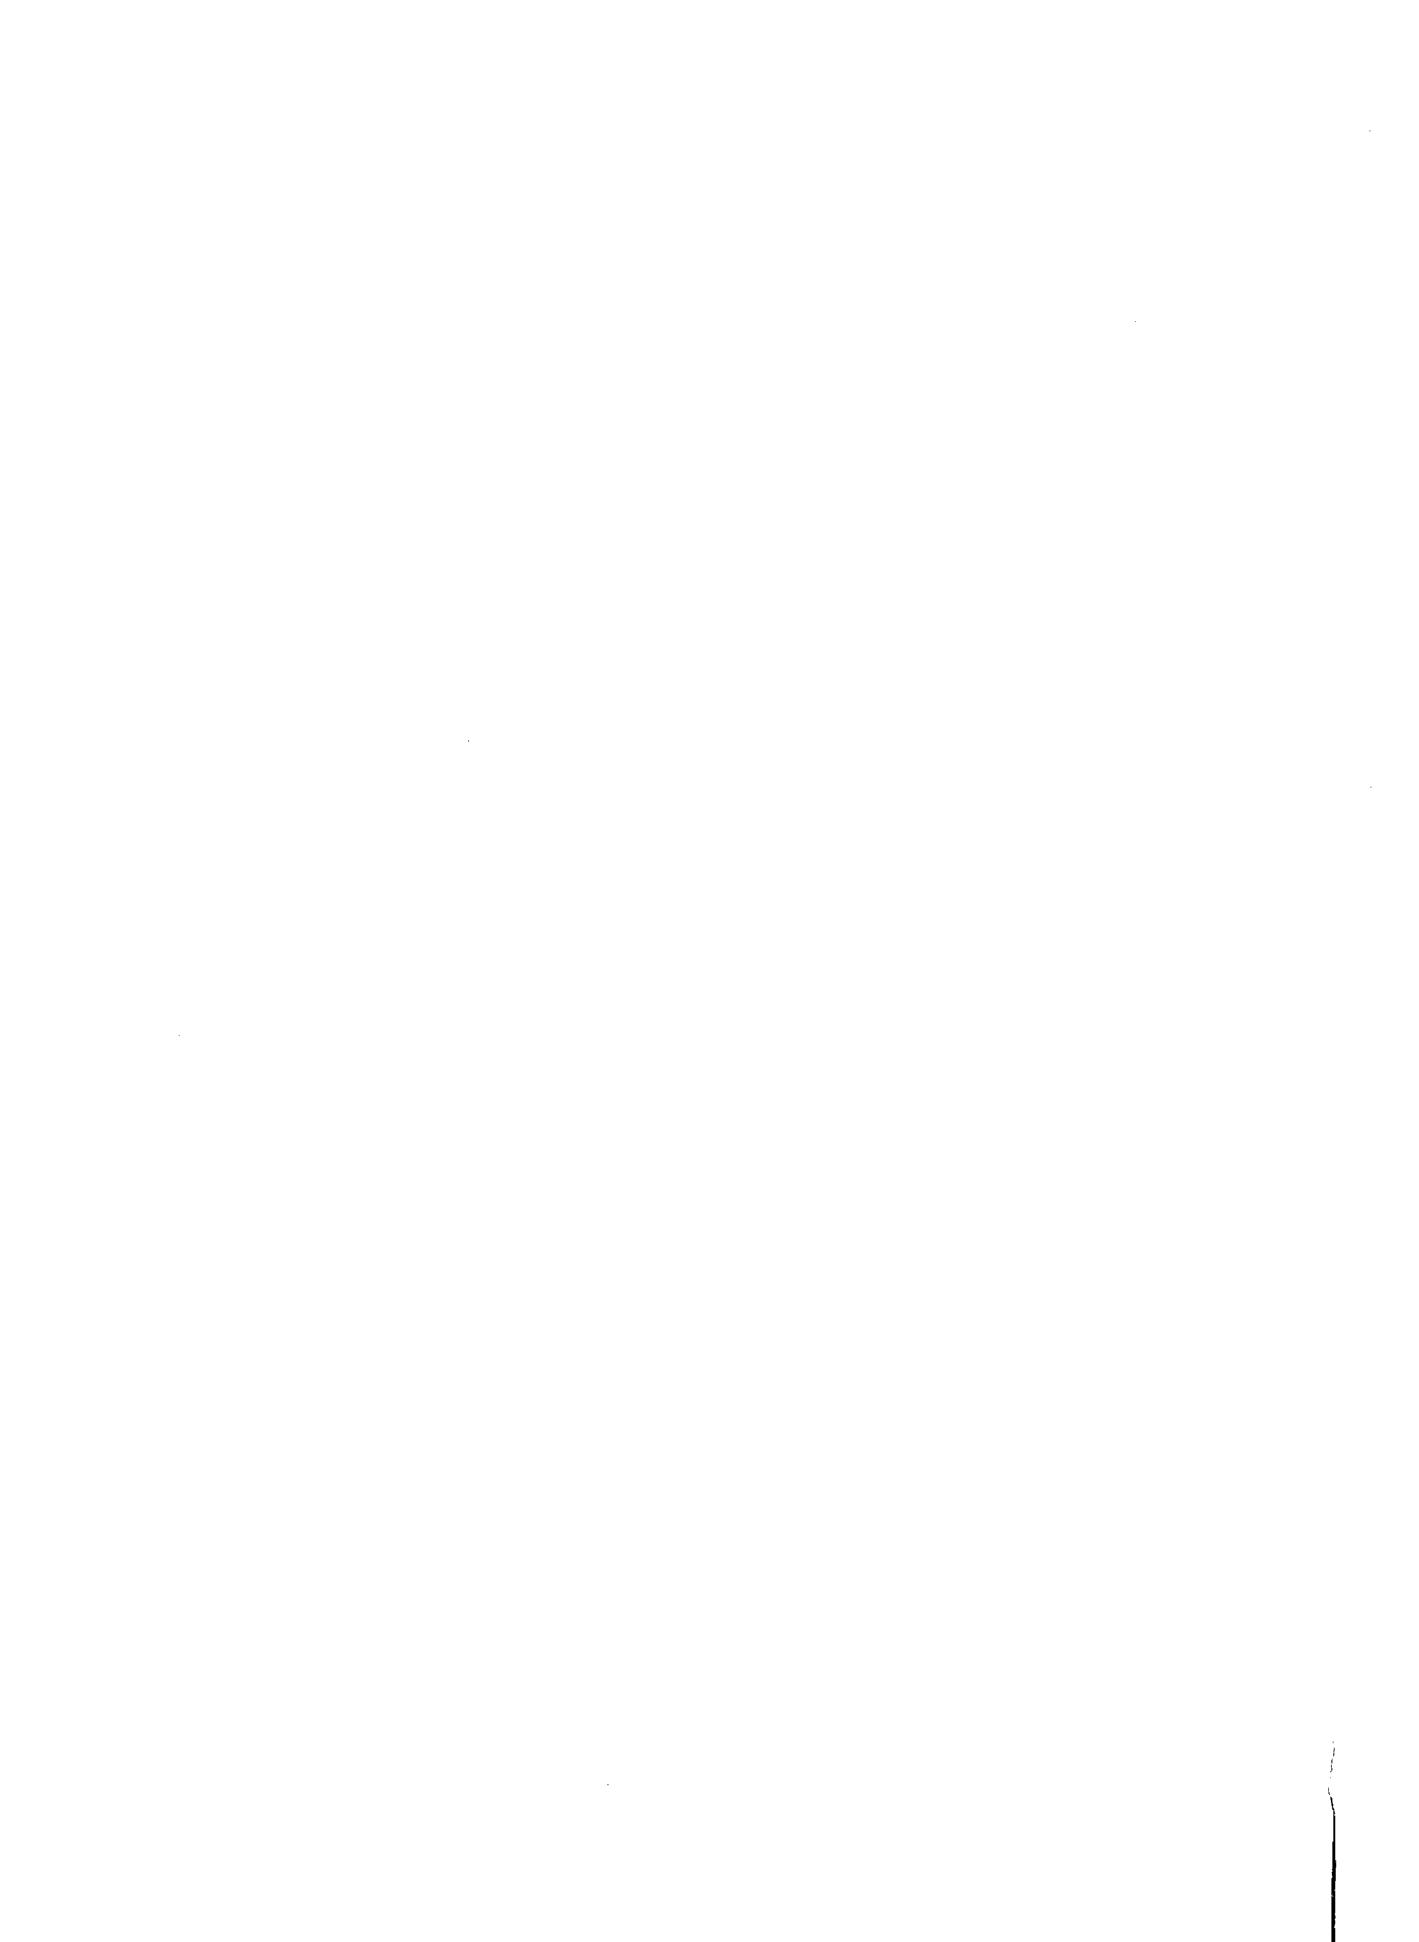

It was a circular letter written by the Church of Smyrna, especially addressed to the Philomelians, and then to all the Churches of God in the world. As this letter has throughout been carefully followed, it may conduce to the better understanding of the Oratorio if we briefly run through it, and point out our authority for the words we have used.

On the breaking out of the Persecution at Smyrna, the Bishop at first remained quietly in the city; but after a while, yielding to the persuasions of his friends, he removed thence, and betook himself to a country place, at no great distance, where he continued with a few companions. Finding himself still followed by his enemies, he sought another refuge. But even then he was not secure: for they caught two of his servants, one of whom, under torture, confessed the hiding-place of his master. Hereupon they sent soldiers at supper time to take him. And it is at this moment that we have supposed the introductory Choral to be sung. The alarm was given, and the Bishop might yet have escaped; but he chose rather to stay and abide the will of God. Then he met the soldiers, and begged them to eat and drink at his table, and to give him the space of an hour for prayer to God. This ended, they set him on an ass, and led him into the city. And as he went, the people were moved, and so much stir was made in the Theatre, that no one could be heard. But as he entered, a voice from heaven, the story continues, was heard comforting him—"Be strong, and quit thee as a man!" The Proconsul was sitting in judgment, and tried to persuade him to reverence his own grey hairs, and to recant. "Swear," he urged him, "by Caesar's fortunes, and I will release thee—Curse the Christ!" Then it was that Polycarp made the famous reply, "Eighty and six years have I served Him, nor has He ever done me any wrong—How can I curse my King, my Saviour?" The Proconsul seems to have been struck by his dignity, and to have done all in his power to save him, first by persuasion, then by threats; but the old man stood firm, and all the more confessed himself a Christian. Therefore he was condemned to be burned; and the crowd, when they heard the proclamation, shouted for joy, and cried out, "He is the teacher of impiety; the father of Christians; the overthrower of our gods, who teaches many neither to sacrifice to nor to worship them." Placed at the pile, he begged them not to nail him to the stake, and they consented, and only bound him to it. Then he lifted up his eyes, and gave utterance to that magnificent prayer, a portion of which has been adopted into the Communion Service.

After this, the pile was lighted, but the fire did not touch the Martyr's person, and he remained unburnt in the midst of the flame: at last some of the bystanders bade the executioner kill him with his dagger: and so his soul found rest.

The Amphitheatre in which he suffered is still standing, and men point out the spot where it is said his body was buried.

The scene of the Oratorio is first laid at the retreat of St. Polycarp, in the neighbourhood of Smyrna; and afterwards changes to the Amphitheatre.

THE MARTYRDOM OF ST. POLYCARP.

The retreat of St. Polycarp in the neighbourhood of Smyrna.

OVERTURE.

RECITATIVE (Contralto).—THE ANGEL.

These things saith the First and the Last, which was dead and is alive: I know thy works and tribulation and poverty, but thou art rich.

—Rev. ii. 8, 9.

AIR.

Fear none of those things which thou shall suffer. Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of Life.—Rev. ii. 10.

CHORAL (supposed to be sung by the Christians in the fields).

FIRST SEMI-CHORUS.

O! Father, hear! Thy children cry:
Thou triest us: the foes are nigh!
Give strength to those who fear Thy name;
Let steadfast hearts Thy praise proclaim;
Tho' foes may threaten sword or fire,
Tho' Thou a Martyr's blood require:

SECOND SEMI-CHORUS.

What Thou hast given we resign:
Our life, our hopes, our souls are Thine!
We hold them but as lent by Thee,
The servants of Thy will to be:
Through Thee, we heed nor joy nor pain:
To live is Christ, to die is gain:

FULL CHORUS (Eight voices).

Abiding in the lonely field,
Thy mighty arm alone our shield,
We wait Thy will: if life be ours,
Oh! guide us through its trying hours:
If martyrdom our lot must be,
Let death be lost in victory.

CHORUS OF CHRISTIANS.

My father! we are discovered; lo! the bands of the heathen approach to pollute the sanctuary of God, and to take thee away from thy children.

MARCH OF THE HEATHEN.

RECITATIVE (Bass).—ST. POLYCARP.

What would ye with an old and life-worn man?
I fear you not, do with me as ye will:
Ye can do naught! the will of God be done!

AIR.

Yet let me pray for a short space, my friends:
The while ye feast upon my homely cheer,
I grudge ye nought—may He your sins forgive!
I blame you not—the will of God be done!

Scene changes to the Amphitheatre at Smyrna.

RECITATIVE (Tenor).

A BYSTANDER.

Behold! the Christians appear, and the people are enraged at the sight of them; they cry furiously to one another, and encourage themselves in mischief. Hark to them!

CHORUS OF PAGANS.

Destroy the foes of the gods. No longer shall they escape us. Down with the foes of the gods! their chief shall die.

RECITATIVE (Contralto).

THE ANGEL.

Thus saith the Lord, the Lord of Hosts, before whom I serve: Be strong, Polycarp, and quit thee as a man.

DUET (Tenor and Bass).

THE PROCONSUL AND ST. POLYCARP.

PROCONSUL.

Swear by Cæsar's fortunes : curse the Nazarene.

POLYCARP.

I cannot swear ; I am a Christian.

PROCONSUL.

I will let thee go if thou wilt curse the Nazarene.

POLYCARP.

Eighty and six years have I served the Christ, nor did He ever do me wrong. How can I curse my King ? How can I revile my Redeemer ?

PROCONSUL.

I can set lions upon thee, if thou wilt not turn.

POLYCARP.

I cannot turn from the better to the worse : I am a Christian.

PROCONSUL.

If thou fearest not the lions, thou shalt be burned with fire.

POLYCARP.

Thy fire is for a moment, and soon is quenched. Thou dost not wot of a fire that never shall be quenched, that burns for ever and ever. Do that thou wilt !

RECITATIVE (Tenor).

THE PROCONSUL.

Ye heralds, do your duty. Proclaim Polycarp a Christian !

CHORAL RECITATIVE.

THE HERALDS.

Polycarp confesses himself a Christian !

DOUBLE CHORUS OF CHRISTIANS AND PAGANS.

PAGANS.

He taught impiety ; he is the father of Christians ; he taught them not to sacrifice, nor to worship the gods !

CHRISTIANS.

He taught us piety ; he is indeed our father ; he hath overthrown their gods ; he hath exalted the Christ.

AIR (Bass).—ST. POLYCARP.

O Lord God Almighty ! God of Angels and of Power ! and of all the just who live before Thee ! I bless Thee for that Thou hast thought me worthy of this day and hour : that I should take part in the number of Thy Martyrs, in the cup of Thy Christ : for the Resurrection unto Life Eternal, that I might be received before Thee this day, a sacrifice well pleasing in Thy sight. Wherefore for all these things I praise Thee, I bless Thee, I glorify Thee, with Thy eternal well-beloved Son : to whom, with Thee and with the Holy Ghost, be glory, now and evermore.

RECITATIVE (Tenor).—THE PROCONSUL.

Away with him to the flames ! It is not fit that he should live !

CHORUS OF PAGANS.

Away with him to the flames !

SYMPHONY.

TRIO (Trebles).—THREE ANGELS.

In the sight of the unwise he seemed to die, and his departure is taken for misery : but he is at peace.—Wisd. iii. 2, 3.

CHORUS OF CHRISTIANS.

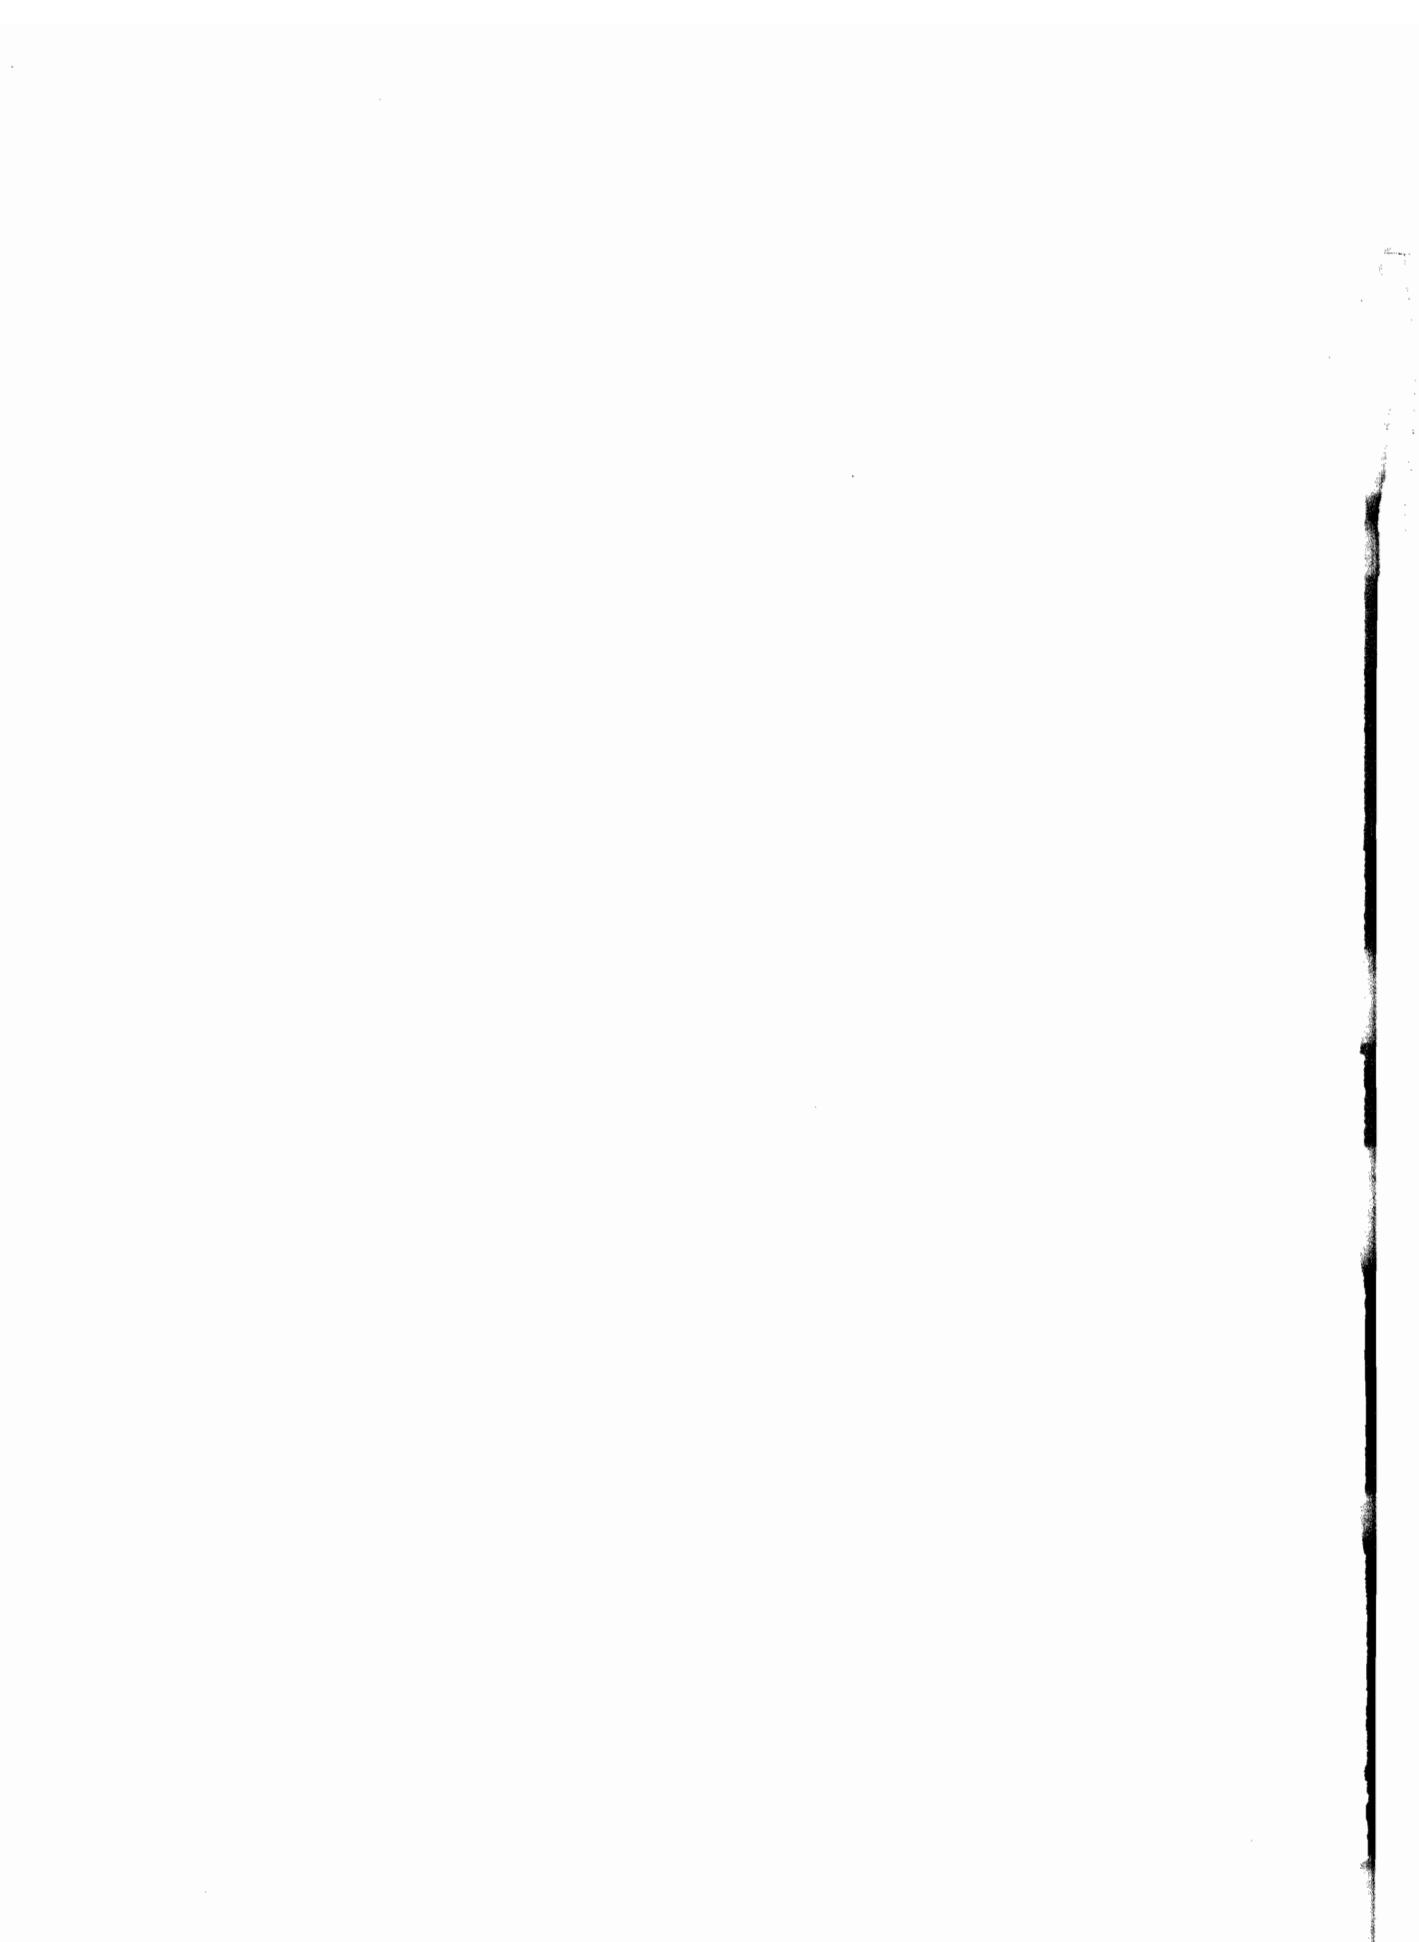

He is at peace ! Therefore we praise Thee ; therefore we bless Thee, we glorify Thee, O Father ! To whom with Thy Eternal Son, and with the Holy Ghost, be glory and thanks for evermore.

DOUBLE CHORUS.

Amen.

The musical score consists of six staves of music. The top staff is for the Contralto voice, starting with a dotted quarter note followed by eighth notes. The lyrics are: "Fear none of those things which thou shalt". The piano accompaniment begins with a sustained bass note and continues with eighth-note chords. The second section starts with "suf - fer," followed by a melodic line with sixteenth-note patterns. The piano part features eighth-note chords. The third section continues with "none of those things which thou shalt suf-fer," with the piano providing harmonic support. The fourth section concludes with "shalt suf- fer, fear none of those", with the piano maintaining its harmonic function.

The musical score consists of eight staves. The first four staves are blank, followed by four staves where each staff contains a single line of lyrics. The lyrics are: "pi - e - ty; He is in-deed our Fa - ther, he is in-deed our Fa - ther!", repeated three times. This is followed by four more staves, each containing a different line of lyrics: "He is the Fa - ther of Chris - tians, he is the Fa-ther of", also repeated three times. The music is in G major, with a mix of common time and 6/8 time signatures, indicated by a change in the bass clef. The vocal parts are likely SATB (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) based on the number of staves.

A musical score page featuring three systems of music. The top system consists of four staves: soprano, alto, tenor, and bass. The soprano and alto staves have treble clefs, while the tenor and bass staves have bass clefs. The vocal parts sing "to the flames!" in unison. The piano part, located below the vocal staves, has two staves and includes dynamic markings like f (fortissimo) and p (pianissimo). The middle system continues with the same four staves. The bottom system also consists of four staves, continuing the musical structure from the previous systems.

A musical score for piano, featuring six staves of music. The top two staves are in treble clef, and the bottom four staves are in bass clef. The music consists of six measures. Measures 1-3 show eighth-note patterns in the treble and sixteenth-note patterns in the bass. Measure 4 begins with a bass note followed by eighth-note patterns in both treble and bass. Measure 5 continues with eighth-note patterns in both treble and bass. Measure 6 concludes with a bass note followed by eighth-note patterns in both treble and bass. The score includes dynamic markings such as Ped. (pedal), ff (fortissimo), and an asterisk (*). The page number 71 is at the top right, and the page number 6997 is at the bottom center.

LIFE OF MOZART

BY

OTTO JAHN

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN BY

PAULINE D. TOWNSEND

Three Volumes, Cloth,

With Five Portraits, and Preface by George Grove, D.C.L. Price £1 11s. 6d.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE TIMES.

"Mr. Grove, in his brief and able preface, calls the publication in an English dress of Otto Jahn's famous biography of Mozart 'an event in our musical history,' and his statement cannot be considered an exaggeration. . . . The English public is to be congratulated upon a translation of his monumental effort which may without exaggeration be called excellent. Miss Townsend has done her work with skill and conscientiousness, and we doubt whether a much more careful comparison with the original than we have thought it necessary to undertake would discover many, or any, serious blunders."

DAILY NEWS.

"He (Jahn) has made admirable use of Nissen, with his laborious compilation, and of all other authorities, and he has succeeded in producing a work which is complete without being confusing through excess of detail, and in which the interest of the narrative is not broken by undue reference to other writers who, treating of the same points, have treated them differently and often incorrectly. . . . The work has been well translated, and it is prefaced by a brief but interesting introduction from the pen of Mr. George Grove."

THE ATHENÆUM.

"It is with great pleasure that we are able to speak in terms of the highest praise of the manner in which Miss Townsend has acquitted herself of the by no means easy task of translation. In so voluminous a work as the present it is almost inevitable that a few slips should be found; but those we have noted are not only extremely rare, but mostly of slight importance. . . . We have done inadequate justice in this review to one of the most important works in the whole domain of musical literature; our excuse must be the absolute impossibility of dealing fully with it within reasonable bounds. We conclude by most cordially recommending it to all who are interested in music, and need only add that the printing and general appearance of the volumes are worthy alike of their contents and of the reputation of the firm which publishes them."
